British Empire Is Preparing to Cut Off Other Nations

Trade Conference Next Month in Canada for
"Closed Empire"

FOR HOME MARKET
British Provinces Would
Guard Jealousy Rich
English Centers

(Editor's Note: The feeling of the British dominions toward the approaching imperial conference at Ottawa in July is explained in the article below. A later article will explain how American trade may be affected.)

By ALLAN ALLMAN
Associated Press Correspondent

LONDON.—(P)—Most of the British dominions will take sides with them in Ottawa in July to grind on the imperial grindstone.

If everybody takes a turn at the stone, and so much grinding doesn't wear it away before the job is done, the mother country and the dominions may face other nations with a marketing combination which could leave the rest of the world out in the cold.

The food and raw material needs of the 45,000,000 people who live in the British Isles are a tempting bait to the dominions.

Meet As Equals

Granted statutory equality with the motherland only this year, they meet with Britain prepared to barter preferences for Britain's manufactured goods in return for British preferences for their own exports of primary articles.

To a smaller extent, the dominions look to each other for development of mutual markets. But broadly speaking all the dominions are not exporters of primary materials, and net importers of manufactured goods.

Canada, for instance, probably would be satisfied if the imperial conference brings a dominion wheat quota and a more extensive use of Canadian lumber and wood pulp products—such as news print—in Britain.

In return, already existing preferences on iron and steel manufactures and textiles might be increased—presumably to the particular detriment of the United States.

Guard Other Markets

Australia already has a market for her wool. An empire meat quota by which Australia would benefit may be asked, but in view of Britain's stake in the Argentine, this is doubtful of attainment.

"But Australia feels that an empire market for its dairy produce and fruit should be relatively easy of adjustment," says J. G. Latham, deputy leader in the new Canberra government.

Along among the dominions South Africa would seem to have much to gain from Ottawa. There is already ample market for South African maize. South African maize is admitted into England free, but so too is maize from Argentina, and a tariff against Argentine maize is most improbable.

A preference on fruits might be of some use, but if gained at the expense of a South African preference on manufacturers which South Africa is attempting to produce herself or buys more cheaply from the United States, the price may be too high.

Dairy products are the principal exports of New Zealand, the Irish Free State, and the Irish Free State may find its case at Ottawa injured by political difficulties with the mother country.

Lewis of Illinois Senate Dandy, Choice is Unlikely

Senator J. Ham Lewis, Illinois' colorful veteran, is shown here at his desk and in two typical poses. A tite right is the debonair solon all dressed up in striped suit, gray fedora, white vest, spats and cane; below, Senator Lewis addressing a meeting of veterans seeking the bonus, at their camp near Washington.

Washington Man Assails Higgason

Tollie Maness Says Judge
"Didn't Know Where the Road Was"

Editor The Star: Ever since the election of County Judge Luther Higgason two years ago I have been making an effort to get the road running beside my house graded or fixed up so that people can travel over it.

Several times while I was in Hope I approached the judge and asked him when the road would be fixed up. He always gave me a promise—but it has never amount to anything yet.

One time when I was in Hope I had a long talk with Mr. Higgason and he finally admitted that he "didn't know where the road was." He told me to go see the road overseer and get him to fix up the road. But I refused to do that, thinking that I had no authority to do such an act.

In the fall and winter months and up until late in the spring the road is impassable with an automobile. When the rain sets in a person can hardly go over it horseback.

I noticed an article in The Star of June 16 about "Higgason and the mules." I want to commend you on that. It was about the best one yet.

I live on the road leading from Washington to Arkadelphia, three miles east of Washington. It has been rumored by some of Higgason's political friends that the road has been killed. I went to Sheriff Wilson and asked him about it. He told me that not an inch of the road had been killed.

In going over the delinquent land tax list I find that not a person in my immediate community is paying for delinquent land, and I think we deserve a road that can be traveled over.

Sincerely,

TOLLIE MANESS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the last in a series of five articles on favorite sons who will figure in the Democratic national convention.

WASHINGTON—
Nothing comes to mind that seems quite so droll as the idea of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois as president of the United States.

But much else is cockeyed in politics despite the attempt of politicians to cover their trade with an aspect of dignity and pomposity. And of all the states that are sending delegations to the Democratic national convention with instructions to vote for favorite sons, Illinois, with her 58, has the largest voting strength.

"J. Ham," the be-whiskered dandy of 58 summers, fourth in number of delegates pledged to him on the first ballot. Only Franklin D. Roosevelt, Al Smith and Jack Garner are ahead of him.

One fears, however, that if the senator attends the convention he will be more picturesque than influential. The probability is, in fact, that he will even be a very hot contender for the vice presidential nomination, which is all most favorite sons are good for.

The trouble seems to be that the Democratic posers of Illinois made "J. Ham" their nominal choice because they were unable or unwilling to agree for anyone else. They are all set to send their votes elsewhere as soon as they decide what's the smart

Dr. N. R. Townsend Dies, Arkadelphia

Widely Known Surgeon and Baptist Succumbs
in Clark County

ARKADELPHIA.—Dr. N. R. Townsend, one of the best known physicians and surgeons of southwest Arkansas and prominent state Baptist official for many years, died suddenly at his home here at 3:30 o'clock Friday morning. He was 66 years of age.

Dr. Townsend, a sufferer for several years with a heart ailment, had been active lately at the hospital which bears his name and in efforts of local citizens to save Cuachita College to Arkadelphia. At a Citizens Committee meeting Thursday afternoon he spoke on plans for raising money with which to finance college obligations. He went home at 6 o'clock, but did not complain of illness. Just before his death he told his wife that he was ill and medicine was given, but this apparently did not benefit him. He died suddenly.

Definite funeral arrangements await the arrival of his son, Dr. Ernest Townsend, from Los Angeles. He probably will arrive early Sunday afternoon and it is likely the funeral will be held that afternoon.

Mule Hits Truck on Washington Highway

A mule-and-truck collision on the Washington pavement Saturday morning resulted in the truck being slightly battered up and serious injury for the animal.

A Gulf Refining oil truck, driven by Grover Ward, attempted to pass a wagon, when a mule hitched to it suddenly swerved into the path of the passing truck. Both the truck and wagon were headed for Hope.

The mule was owned by Jack Cornelius, 1523 South Main street.

Depression Hits Champagne, Celebrating Its 250th Anniversary

By MINOTT SAUNDERS

NEA Service Writer

PARIS—Corks will pop like batteries and bubbles rise in fountains throughout the champagne country when fitting ceremonies will be held June 26-27 in celebration of the 250th anniversary of the discovery of the sparkling wine which many good Frenchmen like to think is a symbol of their choice spirit.

Toasts will be reverently offered to the memory and repose of the soul of that venerable abbot, Dom Perignon, who found the method by which, to this day, the fine, white wines of Champagne are made to fizz.

Amid the celebration, however, there will be grave conferences among the producers of champagne to evolve methods for putting new life into the world market.

For Dom Perignon, in his humble Abbey of Hautvillers, not only discovered an excellent wine, but started a business which has become one of the greatest industries of France.

Experts the world over will attend the anniversary celebration which has been arranged by a committee headed by the mayors of Rheims, Epernay and Hautvillers.

There will be pageants by day and festivals by night, and the program will end with a gala luncheon at the abbey, where there will be no limit to language to honor the virtues of champagne.

"No other product in the whole wide world has so much favored the intercourse of nations or the human relationship of individuals as the wonderful champagne produce of France," says Comte Bertrand de Mun, president of the Commission on Exportation of Wines of France and president of the Champagne Syndicate.

From which it is evident that there is no doubt about the virtues of champagne in the minds of the producers themselves.

But taxation and tariffs have sent the price of champagne soaring. Ordinarily it should not be an expensive wine. A fine bottle of champagne can be bought from the corner storekeeper here for a dollar.

But champagne is still regarded as a luxury product and many foreign countries where the wine is appreciated, such as England, Spain and Portugal and South American countries, have levied almost prohibitive tariffs. The English tax on champagne today is 30 francs and in Portugal it stands at 48 francs. The most glaring example is Columbia where a bottle of champagne from France is taxed 150 francs, or $6, before it can enter the country.

Added to the woes of the champagne producers are the difficulties encountered in Russia and the United States, which before the war represented two of the most lucrative markets.

Russia has been practically cut off by the Soviet regime and prohibition killed the American market for years, although it is no secret that for the past few years the exportation of champagne which ultimately reaches American consumers has been increasing rapidly.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the champagne people would welcome another inspired man like Dom Perignon who this time could show them a way by which they might sell their product.

24 Delegates of Arkansas Off to 1932 Convention

Bear State Group Leaves
Little Rock at 3:05
P. M. Saturday

UPHOLD ROOSEVELT

And Many of Delegates
Favor Resubmitting
Prohi Issue

By J. C. STARK
Associated Press Staff Correspondent
LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—With most of them pledged privately to support Governor Roosevelt of New York for the presidential nomination, Arkansas delegates leave late Saturday for the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

They arrive in Chicago early Sunday morning and caucus during the day at the state headquarters in the Morrison hotel to determine finally how they will cast their vote on the first presidential ballot, what position they will take on a prohibition plank in the party platform and chart their course on other matters.

A chairman also will be elected at that time. Governor Parnell, who left for Chicago Wednesday night to serve on the resolutions committee which is drafting the platform, is expected to be elected chairman.

He is a strong supporter of Governor Roosevelt. Although governor Parnell said before leaving that he opposed any kind of prohibition submission plank, reports are current that a considerable number of the delegates are for submission and some are for sublimation of the question of outright repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Roosevelt forces claim that a poll of the Arkansas delegation shows all eyes turned to Roosevelt. He has not committed himself to that effect. The others have not committed themselves.

Congress Absents Some
Four Arkansas delegates, including Senator Joe T. Robinson, who has played a leading part in Democratic conventions for several years, probably will be absent from the convention because of the failure of congress to adjourn.

Robinson and Senator Hattie V. Caraway are among the eight delegates at large, two congressmen, W. J. Driver and Claude Fuller, are district delegates.

Robinson, who has largely directed the activities of the Arkansas delegations in the past few conventions, is understood to have adopted somewhat of a "hands-off" policy this year. He has not committed himself on the presidential question. If he did, however, declare recently on the prohibition question that if a prohibition submission plank is adopted, it should provide for submission without committing the party to repeal.

Arkansas has 24 delegates with a total of 18 votes.

There are eight delegates at large with a half vote each, and two delegates from each of six congressional districts with a full vote each. The second district, however, named four delegates with a half vote each.

Plantation Head Kills Man, Freed

Shoots Invader He Finds

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—A man identified as Casper Hendrick, of North Little Rock, was shot to death early Saturday by Charles Roberts, 3rd, when Roberts returned to his plantation home six miles from here early Saturday and found a man hiding in his garage.

Coroner Boyce returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Color Comes to the "Hope Star"

ODAY'S Hope Star presents the first two-color printing on the regular run of any newspaper in the history of Hope. Incidental color printing has been attempted before, with the aid of re-runs, in which the color has been applied with a job-press after completing the run on the newspaper press—but today's Star was printed complete at full speed on its Duplex flatbed press, black and red impressions being obtained in a single automatic operation.

After several months' work, R. J. Pearce, The Star's pressman, has completed an attachment for which patents are now pending, which revolutionizes the history of color printing in the smaller cities.

The Star believes that Hope is the smallest city in America in which color-work ever has been offered on the regular run of a daily newspaper.

Ordinarily, an additional color is obtained only by the installation of another press equal to the capacity of the black-and-white printing press. In order to offer color on a paper of six or eight pages The Star would have had to install a second complete eight-page press, giving total capacity of sixteen pages in black-and-white, or eight pages in black, white and red—an installation which is prohibitive in present times.

But Mr. Pearce developed a device which split the present eight-page press in half, giving two four-page units. On one unit, black-and-white is printed; the paper web is reversed and run through the second unit, where red (or green, or blue, or any other second color) is applied, before the paper web is finally released to the folder and cutter—a single complete automatic operation, performed by the press at full speed.

Mr. Pearce's first experiments were conducted with a wooden frame and wooden rollers. After obtaining successful results on trial runs of 500 papers and more, without adjustment, he was ready to have his attachment converted into steel.

The Star had the Arkansas Machine Specialty company complete the blue-prints and castings. Ernest O'Neal set his crew to work. Raymond Newman did the drafting. The foundry poured the metal—and today this attachment has produced the regular edition of The Star, 2,500 copies in black, white and red.

Mr. Pearce does not claim that his attachment will produce color on the complete production of an eight-page daily. But it will turn out a color job on half the page-capacity of any standard "A" or "B" model Duplex flatbed press—which is the predominant printing machine in cities under 10,000 population throughout America and the world.

Thus, The Star is able to offer color-printing at a slight advance in price on any page of a four-page newspaper, and is able to furnish color circulars for contract advertisers in any size from one to four pages, or color special sections up to four pages for insert in the regular edition.

Mr. Pearce owns the patent rights. The Star will help him in any way to market his device which newspaper and equipment men say is going to revolutionize color printing in the smaller cities.

27 Are Seized in Three-County Raid

Former Treasurer of Poinsett County Is Among Federal Prisoners

MEMPHIS.—(P)—A special dispatch to the Evening Appeal from Jonesboro, Ark., Saturday, says that federal prohibition agents arrested 27 alleged moonshiners in a series of raids in three Arkansas counties late Friday.

Two undercover men worked for weeks in Poinsett, Woodruff and Clarendon counties before 18 agents made the raid.

Sixteen were arrested in Poinsett county, including C. A. (Dad) Blanton, former county treasurer, and his son Earl, 30.

Judge Kirby Raps Opponents in Hope

Candidate for Senate
Speaks at City Hall
Friday Night

Speaking before a small audience at the city hall Friday night, Judge William F. Kirby, candidate for the United States senate, advocated the creation of "more money" by the government, but not to provide it through the issuance of bonds.

He bitterly opposed the League of Nations and defended his record on this issue while serving as United States senator during President Wilson's administration.

Judge Kirby advocated destroying gambling on the cotton exchanges, pointing it out as a great evil, hurting the farmer. He criticized the progress made by the Farm Board, and partly blamed this organization for the present price of cotton—however, he was not in favor of abolition of the board.

He favored the immediate cash payment of the soldier's bonus.

He ridiculed the records of all his opponents. In referring to O. L. Bodenhamer, Melbourne M. Martin and Vincent Miles, Judge Kirby described them as the "three majors" except that one was a captain—who didn't get within 3,000 miles of the battle front.

Martin is still trying to explain his connections with improvement districts in Little Rock, Judge Kirby said. Miles he referred to as the Democratic national committeeman from Arkansas who allowed counties in the state to go Republican for the first time at the last national election and a man who was "defeated the only time he ever had any opposition."

Former Governor Charles H. Brough was termed "the irresponsible Governor Brough" by Judge Kirby, who declared that the chief talent of his opponent remains his ability to "talk."

As no advance notice had been given of his appearance, his crowd was small.

Noted Leaders to Sign Round-Robin Opposing a Change

Anti-Roosevelt Men
Would Ignore Merit
Majority Nominee

BAKER IS FOR RULE

But Thomas J. Walsh
Takes Side of Franklin
Roosevelt Men

CHICAGO.—(AP)—

The long-awaited coalition threat to bolt Franklin D. Roosevelt if nominated without the customary two-thirds majority, took an organized form among Democrats Saturday as several more party stalwarts, including Newton D. Baker, lined up against abrogating the two-thirds rule now.

The convention opens here Monday.

A round-robin pledging to sign, not to support any candidate failing to receive a two-thirds vote at next week's convention, was drawn up by anti-Roosevelt men as the leaders of the New York governor began another breathless checkup of forces that will throw into the fight for abrogation.

They claim a simple majority both for their candidate and for abrogation; but their figures are discredited. Former Governor Smith of New York in a statement Saturday said: "The advocates of abrogation are all good as licked already."

Baker Against Change

CLEVELAND.—(P)—Newton D. Baker, a possible Democratic presidential nominee, Saturday joined the ranks of those fighting to retain the party rule requiring a two-thirds vote for nomination. Baker said that a nomination by a mere majority, running roughshod over established traditions, would be embarrassing both to the party and the candidate.

Walsh With Roosevelt

CHICAGO.—(P)—After a conference with James A. Farley, campaign manager for Roosevelt, Senator Walsh of Montana said Saturday: "Any time is a good time to abrogate the two-thirds rule."

Walsh is the Roosevelt men's choice for permanent chairman of the convention. Walsh had declined earlier to reveal his attitude on the rule at this convention.

Labor Is Heard
CHICAGO.—(P)—The Democratic platform-makers Saturday gave organized labor an attentive and inquisitive hearing.

Not content with hearing William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, present the demands of the working man, members of the resolutions committee questioned him closely.

Mayor Walker asked Green if in the event the federal government gave aid to municipalities for public construction it would not be as satisfactory as a federal building program. Green said it would. The labor leader also urged modification of the prohibition law to allow two and three quarters per cent beer.

Roosevelt Has 591
CHICAGO.—(P)—A nine-way race for the Democratic presidential nomination of 1932 which began in the New Hampshire primaries last March ended its pre-convention phase in Indiana just before the opening of the national convention of the party in this city.

As the count of delegates stood then on the basis of preference primaries or convention action in the respective states, the nine contestants headed by the two New York aspirants, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Governor Alfred E. Smith, stood as follows:

Roosevelt—pledged or instructed	491
Smith—pledged or instructed	91
Garner—pledged	90
Lewis—pledged	52
White—pledged	52
Reed—pledged	32
Byrd—pledged	31
Murray—pledged or pledged	23
Hitchcock—pledged	16

Total 884
The above total represents the undisputed allocation between candidates of 884 of the total of 1,154 votes that make up the convention roll. Under the traditional two-thirds majority nominating rule of the Democratic party it would take 778 votes to name the party nominee.

New York Votes Disputed
In this tabulation all but two New York votes pledged to Roosevelt in district primaries out of the total of 170 votes to be cast in the convention by New York and Pennsylvania are

Editor The Star: At many times in recent months I have wondered if the integrity of the press was not weakening to some extent under the spell of the demagogues. You can therefore appreciate the quality of my admiration and appreciation of your courage and fair mindedness in dealing with my case editorially.

It strikes me that the fine type of citizenship so abundantly represented at the meeting of the Governor's office last week vindicates your judgment of the facts in the case and enhances the significance of your early declaration of your position.

Over 3,000 Boys in 4-H Club Work

County Agents Reached Many Farm Lads Last Year

Three thousand, one hundred and eight boys ranging in age from 10 to 20 years, took advantage of the instruction given by county agents in 4-H club work last year.

This work was closely allied with the schools in the 15 counties concerned. Definite schedules of club meetings were made in conjunction with county superintendents of schools and the principals of the schools. This schedule of club meetings was closely followed and was as regular as the class periods in other subjects. Instruction was given in practically every phase of boys' work on the farm. The greater portion of the boys took demonstrations in such work as hog production, corn, cotton, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, dairy calf production, and peanuts. Wherever possible the boys were encouraged to take more than one demonstration, especially in the demonstrations of corn, soy beans, and hogs; vetch to be turned under and cotton.

The quality of the work done is shown by the number completing the demonstrations started. Two thousand, one hundred and seventy-six boys, or more than 70 per cent, completed their work satisfactorily. This number compares favorably with the number completing their school work at the same time.

NOTED LEADER

disregarded as being still in doubt due to conflicting claims of Roosevelt and Smith leaders in Pennsylvania and uncertainty as to the action the New York delegation might take when it convenes here the day before the convention.

Roosevelt literature circulated by his headquarters in Chicago, claims 105 of the New York-Pennsylvania total.

By states the indicated allocation between the candidates is as follows: Roosevelt, instructed and pledged: Michigan 38; Georgia 28; Iowa 28; North Carolina 28; Kentucky 28; Wisconsin 28; Tennessee 24; Alabama 24; Minnesota 24; Kansas 20; South Carolina 18; West Virginia 18; Nebraska 18; Washington 18; Florida 14; Colorado 12; Maine 12; South Dakota 10; Oregon 10; North Dakota 9; Utah 8; Montana 8; Vermont 8; New Hampshire 8; Idaho 8; New Mexico 6; Wyoming 6; Arizona 6; Nevada 6; Delaware 6; Indiana 6 (rest unpledged); District of Columbia 6; Hawaii 6; Alabama 2; New York 2. Total 481.

Roosevelt claimed (except New York and Pennsylvania) and with Smith counter claims as to 6 votes from Porto Rico and 5 out of 6 from the canal zone; Indiana 24; Mississippi 20; Louisiana 20; Arkansas 18; Philippines 6; Virgin Islands 2.

Roosevelt has 581 strength figures give the Roosevelt full strength, pledged and claimed as 381, although Roosevelt literature issued here claims a total of 691 for him on the first ballot and predicts a sufficient shift his way during that ballot to insure his nomination. The difference is largely accounted for by Indiana and the New York-Pennsylvania situation.

Smith, instructed and pledged: Massachusetts 36; New Jersey 32; Connecticut 16; Rhode Island 10. Total 94.

Garner, pledged: Texas 46; California 44. Total 90.

Lewis, pledged: Illinois 58. White, pledged: Ohio 52.

Byrd, instructed: Missouri 36. Reed, instructed: Virginia 24.

Murray, instructed and pledged: Oklahoma 22; North Dakota 1. Total 23.

Richie, pledged: Maryland 18. In this recapitulation one delegate from Alaska remains in doubt as to presidential preference. Pending contests before the credentials committee of the convention, do not involve presidential preference so far as state delegations are concerned.

THE MEASURE OF PROSPERITY

Is determined by the financial status and purchasing power of the nation's people, since we must sell our products of the farm on the nation's markets.

People with savings funds will always have the means to broaden, to buy, to invest, to buy homes or farms, and to attain financial independence.

Everyone owes it to himself, his community and his country to build personal prosperity through persistent savings.
